

Triple murder suspect nabbed Saturday by New Orleans police

By ELLIS CUEVAS
A nationwide search for James E. Billiot, a suspect in a Leetown, Conn., triple murder, ended Saturday when New Orleans police nabbed him. The 29-year-old man was arrested by the New Orleans Police Department Saturday afternoon. He was taken to the Leetown Community Center, where the bodies of Wallace Croll, 53, and his wife, Cheryl, 47, were discovered. The bodies of the victims were found in the Leetown Community Center, where the bodies of the victims were found. Croll's made his way to the house right now. Pearl River Deputy Fred Rector, the first law officer at the scene, said, "My office received a call around 9:30 a.m. The residence is located about 10 miles from the Pearl River County line. Lawrence Lee, another neighbor, reported Wallace Croll was still alive when he arrived at the scene. Billiot was found in the dining room area. Croll's body was found partially lying on a living room couch, and the girl's body was found inside near the front entrance of the home. The family attended Lee's Chapel in Two Baptist Church, and Bob Redman, another neighbor, said the children regularly rode the church bus to attend services. Billiot was reportedly seen on Hwy. 43, shortly after the murders, driving his stepfather's 1978 red Chevrolet. Residents of the community reported to investigators seeing Billiot in the area Thursday morning. One neighbor said Billiot had not been a frequent visitor to his parents' home.

residence in recent months. Wallace Croll was a retired Mississippi River fireboat captain and moved to Leetown about eight years ago, friends report. Billiot, a son of Andy Croll by a previous marriage, reportedly has relatives in the St. Bernard Parish area. The names of these relatives were not given. Parish deputies, road blocks were also being manned by parish deputies. Billiot is described as five feet, nine inches tall, 160 pounds, brown hair and eyes, a large mouth with big teeth, and a dark, ruddy complexion. Peterson said he was arrested "once or twice" in Hancock or in other complaints for trespassing. Neighbors report that Billiot had been in mental hospitals in both Mississippi and Louisiana. The bodies of the victims were taken by Edmond Fahey Funeral Home to Reesley Air Force Base for temporary storage. An autopsy was performed at Gulf Coast Community Hospital on Friday. Later, the bodies were sent to Lamana-Panno-Palla Funeral Home in St. Bernard for funeral arrangements.

Hancock County Coroner Ed Little was called to the scene of the triple murder in the absence of Hancock Coroner Carl Banderet, who was reported to be out of the state. Other officers included in the investigation are Joe Price, chief of criminal investigation for Southern Mississippi State Highway Patrol; T.P. Naylor, senior investigator of the Coastal Bureau of Criminal Investigation of the State Highway Patrol; Hancock Deputy James Lader, Pearl River Deputy Sam Bodie and Bay St. Louis Investigator Matt Karl. Also at the scene were Justice Court Judge Harold Frierson and Hancock Prosecuting Attorney John Gentile.

Bay mayor seeks support for ad hoc committee plan

By ELLIS CUEVAS
Bay Mayor James E. Billiot is seeking support for a plan to create an ad hoc committee to investigate the triple murder in Leetown, Conn. The plan was presented to the Bay St. Louis City Council on Saturday. The committee would be composed of representatives from the local law enforcement agencies and the community. The mayor said that the committee would be responsible for investigating the circumstances surrounding the murders and for recommending appropriate actions to be taken. The plan was met with mixed reactions from the council members. Some supported the plan, while others expressed concerns about the cost and the potential for bias. The mayor said that he would continue to work with the council to gain support for the plan.

COOPER CLASSIC

The Wedding Night, the love story of a famous New York author and a New England farm girl, can be seen on "Film Classics" at 8:30 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 3, on the Mississippi Educational Television Network.

Gary Cooper, Anna Sten, Ralph Bellamy and Walter Brennan star in the film, directed by King-Video.

Cooper portrays a writer who believes that high living has ruined his writing ability and accompanies his wife to their country home in Connecticut. He hopes to find inspiration for a novel in the habits and customs of his foreign-born neighbors. After his wife returns to New York, Cooper finds himself in love with a neighboring farm girl (Anna Sten).

LOTTERY EXPLORED

The next edition of U.S. Chronicle reports on the pros and cons of the New Jersey State Lottery at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 3, on the Mississippi Educational Television Network. State and lottery officials, economists, psychologists, gambling experts, lottery ticket sellers and some lottery winners give their viewpoints on the New Jersey State Lottery system.

New Jersey is one of 14 states that have implemented government-run lotteries to raise revenues. Although a recent Gallup poll indicates that three million people a week buy lottery tickets in New Jersey, some economists and politicians feel it's not a very good way to raise money.

Study finds oral tobacco drives up blood pressure

Oral tobacco increases the work of the heart and also drives up blood pressure in humans, according to a report issued at the American Heart Association's 34th Scientific Sessions in Dallas.

The study, directed by William G. Squires, PhD, associate professor of Biology and physical education at Texas Lutheran College, Seguin, is believed to be one of the first controlled research projects to show the impact of oral tobacco (snuff) on the cardiovascular system.

While snuff was once primarily inhaled, it is now primarily swallowed and then absorbed into the bloodstream through the mouth and throat.

Dr. Squires points out that the study was designed to show the effect of oral tobacco on blood pressure in healthy individuals.

For the human research, 10 healthy men and 10 healthy women were given oral tobacco for a period of 10 days.

During this time, their blood pressure was monitored and compared to their baseline readings.

The results showed that oral tobacco caused a significant increase in blood pressure in both men and women.

GOODWILL INDUSTRIES

What's good about it;

What's bad about it

By JOE PILET

We who live in Hancock County are familiar with the services offered by the Goodwill Store located on Necaise Avenue, and we also know there is a collection bin located at the entrance of the A&P Shopping Mall.

Goodwill Industries is one of the world's most successful rehabilitation organizations. It is now about 80 years old and was built on the principal of helping people to help themselves.

That's Good. It helps physically, mentally and emotionally disabled people primarily; however, directly or indirectly it helps everyone.

That's Good. In a book written by John Fulton Lewis and entitled "Goodwill For The Love of People" there is a startling statement: "11.4 percent of our population is measurably handicapped."

That's Bad. These people are victims of what Lewis calls ABCD problems, i.e. accidents, birth defects, circumstances of environment and disease.

Which, of course, is both sad and bad.

That a non-profit organization is improving the quality of life for these ABCD people is heartwarming, and the general public has responded by giving clothing, furnishings, appliances, etc. they no longer need.

In Goodwill workshops these items are repaired, sorted, and placed in outlet shops for sale at very low prices.

This is good in several ways: employment for handicapped who can work at their own level or pace, providing necessities for low income persons, and giving assurance to those who donate goods that their gifts go for a good cause.

Edgar J. Helms, founder of Goodwill Industries, died in December, 1942. He was a diabetic. Not long before his death he wrote:

"I, Edgar, James Helms, have often been referred to as the founder of Goodwill Industries. This is not strictly true. The originator of Goodwill Industries was the Master of men who spoke from a Galilean hillside and commanded his disciples to 'gather up the fragments, that nothing be lost.'"

Goodwill Industries seeks to serve the needy in a practical way by training and finding work for handicapped that they may develop usefulness.

There have been some unknown or un-caring persons who have caused problems to the organization. Here are some of the problems reported:

1. Some people leave appliances that are large, heavy and so worn until they cannot be repaired. Goodwill must pay to have these items hauled to a distant dump.

2. Some people leave soiled pillows and mattresses at the entrance of the outlet stores or in the collection bins. These items cannot be sold and the burden of disposing of them rests with Goodwill. This is not fair.

3. Some people crawl into the collection bins and take items, and a few have even been known to actually toss garbage into the bins! This soils items in the bins, and creates other problems.

These problems are bad, but they are correctable and that is good.

With a deeper understanding of the work done by this organization the public will surely respond in a helpful way.

SHARE THE COST OF LIVING.

Realtors attend conference

The association of realtors, the 700,000 members involved in nation's largest trade, all phases of the real estate association, represents nearly industry.

Robert N. Rick, co-owner of David & Rick, Inc. of Pass Christian, and Elaine Thornton, associate realtor of that company, recently attended the 74th annual convention of the National Association of Realtors in Miami Beach, Fla. "Key politicians and policy makers such as Vice President George Bush, Housing and Urban Development Secretary Sam Pierce, U.S. Sen. Pete Domenici, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, House Majority Leader Jim Wright, and Paul Volcker, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board were on the convention program," Rick reports.

Along with thousands of realtors from across the country, Rick had an opportunity to attend some 140 educational seminars, workshops and roundtables, all designed to help members upgrade their knowledge and skills in order to help America's property owners.

Bits 'n pieces

We have noted a large table of ceramics being offered for sale by Hancock Industries workers at the corner of US-90 and Drinkwater Street.

Those of you not knowing just what to purchase for that special someone may be able to find a gift at Hancock Industries.

It sure will make the workers happy, because it will give them a chance to earn a few nickles. The workers take pride in the delicate items they have created.

George Graves, supervisor of Hancock Industries, reports that the Christmas holiday season is a favorite time for the workers.

Hancock Industries is sponsored by the Gulf Coast Mental Health Center an agency of the Hancock County United Way.

Santa Claus will make an early arrival at Hancock County Courthouse in Bay St. Louis at 4:30 p.m. today.

Due to a lack of snow this year, Santa will ride a fire truck as a substitute for his sleigh.

We hope all of the children of the county will attend and give Santa their requests for Christmas, we know he will be happy to see you.

The annual event sponsored by the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce which has undertaken a lot of planning to offer a very nice program.

We hope to see you with Santa.

We are starting to receive letters to Santa and are relaying them to the jolly old man of the North Pole.

The Echo will be publishing letters to Santa and has made special arrangements for their delivery to St. Nick.

If you would like to write to Santa send it to Santa Claus, North Pole, c/o The Sea Coast Echo, Bay St. Louis.

NEWS

Mississippians now have an opportunity to end one of the most long-lived, inefficient systems operating in the county government level, according to the Mississippi Economic Council.

"A provision in the comprehensive highway bill passed during the 1981 legislative session requires that all counties adopt the unit system of administering county road systems or lose their state aid road funds," said MEC Chairman W. W. Gresham, Jr., an Indiana businessman. "The law requires counties to adopt the unit system by July 1, 1983, unless each board of supervisors adopts a resolution exempting its county from the mandate."

Gresham explained that, with some exceptions, the management of county road programs is split five ways in each county. Each supervisor manages the roads in his own beat, generally with his own labor force, his own equipment, his own budget, and his own method of building and maintaining county roads.

"This means that there are more than 400 separate, independent road departments in the state, with counties spending about 60 percent of their total revenue—not including education—on county roads," he said.

Several studies—conducted by and for the Legislature—point out that the best system of county road management does not provide the most efficient and productive expenditure of tax dollars. General Legislative Investigative Committee studies conducted in the early 1970s reported "Counties with central control procedures, wherein the five districts are combined into one, tend to reduce the inefficiency, illegality, and other undesirable elements that thrive in the other counties." And the studies pointed to losses of $100,000 to $1 million dollars attributed to the inefficient beat system of road management and called for legislative action requiring administration of roads on a countywide basis.

"Inflation and spiraling costs of all government functions have made Mississippians much more aware of where and how their tax dollars are being spent," said Gresham.

"The 1981 Legislature has placed the issue of county road management in the hands of the voters. The Mississippi Economic Council urges the state's citizenry to take a close look at how county roads are managed and let boards of supervisors know that they expect more efficient use of their tax dollars by adopting the unit system of road management."

UNIFORMITY IN EDUCATION

Governor William Winter has repeatedly stressed the importance of a quality public education system in Mississippi and indications are that education will be one of his top objectives during the coming legislative session.

Some new education programs would require funding which many lawmakers oppose because of a tight state budget. And, lawmakers have expressed reluctance to raise taxes to fund new programs.

But there is one step lawmakers could take which would require little, if any, additional funding—the establishment of a single form of school district, rather than the four different types of districts now permitted.

Mississippi's four types of school districts—county unit, consolidated, municipal separate, and special municipal separate—operate under different laws governing school finance, selection of superintendents, and even selection of board members. Differences in organization result in several administrative problems.

For example, per pupil expenditures in some school districts are less than half the amount spent in other districts. Wide variances exist in percentages of local financial support for each type district.

Also, the method of selecting a school superintendent affects the quality of administration. Conflict in direction may be more likely in districts in which both the superintendent and the quality of administration. Conflict in direction may be more likely in districts in which both the superintendent and the board members are elected. Persons who can generate sufficient votes to be elected may not necessarily be the best qualified school administrators or policy makers.

The Mississippi Economic Council, the largest association of business and professional leadership in the state, recommends a single school district with uniform administration and financial independence.

MEC believes that the best administration can be achieved through a competent, professional administrator appointed by and operating under the policy directions of a qualified lay board of education.

TOWARD A BETTER UNDERSTANDING

There is a negative attitude undercutting the very fiber of the American enterprise system, but this attitude is not usually recognized or addressed by the business community.

American business is suffering from inflation, high interest rates, and over regulation—but there is a more dangerous threat to the nation's economic freedom and health. That threat results from a lack of understanding of the American enterprise system and how it has been responsible for providing Americans the highest standard of living in recorded history. A recent national survey of 24,000 of the country's teenagers revealed that a majority of them are highly suspicious of business profits, and overvaluing government controls, and more than 50 percent said business should be forced to be more socially responsible.

This presents a challenge to the nation's business community—a challenge to regain the regard and confidence of the public.

One of the most significant challenges being faced by American business is the lack of understanding of the American enterprise system. This is a serious problem because it is the foundation of our economic freedom and health. A recent national survey of 24,000 of the country's teenagers revealed that a majority of them are highly suspicious of business profits, and overvaluing government controls, and more than 50 percent said business should be forced to be more socially responsible.

system, and techniques which can be used to convey that knowledge and understanding to their students.

This school year, 79 economic education workshops have been scheduled or conducted by AEC, reaching more than 2,500 teachers. These teachers will pass on the knowledge of the American enterprise system to some 75,000 Mississippi youngsters. These youngsters represent the economic future of the state.

This program, along with others of the AEC, is financed through private donations from concerned Mississippi citizens.

Political freedom cannot endure without economic freedom. And freedom must be understood to be appreciated.

NEWS FROM THE GOVERNOR'S OFFICE

Governor William Winter, representing Mississippi and the National Governors' Association, has urged Treasury Secretary Donald Regan to support continuation of tax-exempt status for industrial development bonds (IDBs).

Winter told Regan that IDBs are especially important for small industries which are a rich source of jobs in the state.

Winter said that "IDBs are one of the most widely used and important instruments that Mississippi and many other states have to create jobs."

The governor told Regan that the threatened industrial development bond program "is crucially important to the economic health and growth of Mississippi."

IDBs have been an effective tool for job creation in Mississippi. This financial mechanism is more important than ever before as Mississippi and the nation try to stimulate the economy in the face of high interest rates. Mississippi pioneered the use of tax-exempt IDBs. The state uses them exclusively for industrial development and not for commercial purposes.

Winter told Regan, "My overriding interest is to create jobs and spur our economy. I know that President Reagan shares this important goal. Our ability to use IDBs is crucial to meeting this common goal."

While in Washington, Winter also met with Housing and Urban Development Secretary Samuel Pierce to discuss Mortgage Revenue Bonds and Community Development Block Grants.

Mortgage Revenue Bonds permit home buyers to secure financing at lower interest rates than are available through conventional lending programs.

In 1980, Winter won legislative approval for $150 million in low interest mortgage money that was made available to moderate and low income Mississippians.

In 1981, the legislature authorized issuance of $200 million in mortgage revenue bonds.

Winter is seeking removal of restrictions on MRBs. Since these restrictions were issued in June of this year, no state housing authority has gone to market with a mortgage-revenue bond issue for single-family homes. Winter told Pierce that the restrictions are "regulatory overkill."

CHRISTMAS TOURS

Gov. and Mrs. William Winter will host a series of candlelight tours of the Governor's Mansion during the upcoming Christmas season.

The tours, which are free and open to the public, are scheduled for Dec. 10, 11, 16 and 17 from 5 p.m. until 7 p.m. each day.

The governor and his wife extend a special invitation to all Mississippians to include these mansion candlelight tours as part of their Christmas celebration.

The governor's mansion will be decorated with ornaments, wreaths, and other Christmas decor characteristic of the mid 1800s.

The tours will feature Christmas carols by Mississippi high school and college choirs and the Municipal Brass Ensemble directed by Jack Jones. Refreshments will be served.

A hemophiliac, supporting five children and paying $250 a month rent from a $500 monthly income, needs more economical housing. An amputee urgently needs a job. A crippled individual wants to know how to supplement his meager income. A church group president wants information on starting a handicapped services project.

These people have one thing in common. They found answers through the Governor's Office of Handicapped Services (GOHS). Whether it's Jackson or Jonesboro, help is as near as the telephone. Jackson-area residents may reach GOHS at 354-7745. Other Mississippians may contact Handicapped Services via the toll-free Governor's Service Line 1-800-222-7622.

GOHS also may be contacted via a personal visit or writing to the Governor's Office of Handicapped Services, 802 N. State St., Jackson 39202.

When a request comes in, Handicapped Services completes an assistance request report on the nature of the person's handicap, assistance requested and action taken on the request.

The help comes in many forms. Sometimes GOHS can provide an immediate answer to a basic question. Other times the office refers the person to the proper agency. Frequently, however, Handicapped Services helps the handicapped by making various contacts with public or private agencies on the person's behalf. Then, GOHS reports back to the individual.

"We don't forget the person at this point," said Jan Larsen, GOHS director. "We wait an appropriate period of time and then contact the individual to be sure the problem was properly resolved."

Although we're able to resolve a great variety of problems, there are times when we cannot provide the assistance requested. Ms. Larsen said, "We're not miracle workers. More than anything else, we help handicapped persons cut through the confusion of a myriad of public and private agencies. We help them get the right answers."

Beyond direct service to individuals, Handicapped Services also has an ongoing program of education and service to help all of Mississippi's handicapped persons. Projects range from providing information on accessibility of programs and buildings to working to change negative attitudes some persons have about the handicapped. Ms. Larsen said, "We want handicapped persons to have their rightful share of all Mississippi has to offer."

WHAT ABOUT THE MUPPETS?

Suppose for a moment that ten years ago a friend had come up to you and said, "Let's invest our savings in foam rubber, cloth and golf balls, invent some weird voices and tell the latest and corniest jokes in the world, all in all, just sing and dance and cavort in the name of entertainment."

Well, after the initial shock of knowing that your friend had gone off the deep end, you'd probably be thinking you'd be better off liquidating your assets and putting the whole smear on one dog in a greyhound race. After all, at least there you'd have a chance!

But if you had listened to that zany entrepreneurial offer, you might have beaten Jim Henson and his Muppets to the mega-dollar punch!

Henson is now, and always has been, the driving force behind (and under) the Muppets.

Every major star in the world will appear with the Muppets at any given time. It's not unusual for Scooter to knock on the dressing room door and tell the likes of Bob Hope, Julia Andrews or Elton John that they have fifteen seconds till curtain.

Not even Johnny Carson is as endearing as Kermit in his role as master of ceremonies.

Kermit tries to maintain a semblance of order in a show full of disorder. The characters simply run amuck and sometimes run roughshod over Kermit himself. Miss Piggy is always on hand to add romance, or a swift judo kick to the seat of the pants if anyone so much as looks at another pig (Hillillilly!).

One of the best sequences on The Muppet Show is "The Adventures of Veterinarian Dr. Hibbert."

The Muppet craze is phenomenal as evidenced by a syndicated television show, two movies, commercials, a profile on 60 Minutes, calendars, books, a comic strip, and in a tour of museums across the country under the label "The Art of the Muppets."

These cloth creatures have captivated audiences around the world, appealing to young and old alike with their color and excitement and Marx Brothers-like dialogue.

Bob" as portrayed by Kolf and Nurses' Miss Piggy and Alice. Talk about bad humor...the way this trio butchers comedy, they make the "henweigh joke" a classic. (I ran over a hen-weigh this morning. Oh, what's a hen-weigh? About five or six pounds.)

One small problem with The Muppet Show is that sometimes the writers lose track of their audience, as displayed in a recent skit involving Dr. Bunson Honey and Beaker.

Dr. Bunson had just invested edible paper clips and he had the always-timid Beaker try one. Beaker was soon gulping handfuls of paper clips. Now for a show that children watch, the skit was in bad taste (er, excuse me).

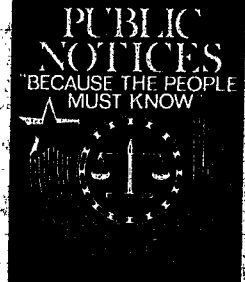

On the opposite side of the coin is the Muppet production "Emmet Otter's Jug Band Christmas." This show is destined to rerun because of its heartwarming musical numbers, beautiful philosophy and ingenious special effects.

And "The Riverbottom Nightmare-Band"—is an assembly of the weirdest and wildest characters you have ever seen, including a snake who plays bass with his reptilian tail.

As of yet, I haven't justified in my own mind watching the Muppets. I feel as if I'm one of those beleaguered critics sitting in the balcony, hurling insults and not admitting that I'm actually enjoying myself.

So, for the time being, I'll simply read my newspaper and watch the news and then—every weeknight at 6:30 p.m. on Ch. 6—I'll tune in on The Muppet Show. And this will be my first and last admission of guilt and pleasure.

Council employs firm to study faulty well

By BRENT MACEY
The Bay-St. Louis City Council Tuesday approved hiring a Jackson firm to determine what is causing it to have so many problems.
The councilmen noted a pump at the well has burned out several times, and also is pumping sand with the water.
Bill Johnson, head of the city's utility department, said the current pump is designed to pump 750 gallons per minute. However, the pump has been slowed down by city crews to pump only 325 gallons per minute but sand continues to be pumped out with water and the electric pump continues to burn out, he said.
The council declared the well an emergency situation last week when the pump again burned out. The well is one of four wells connected together which supply water to the city.

The council unanimously approved a $4,100 bid from Layne Construction Co. to run a camera down into the well to determine the problem.
The council also agreed to accept a bid submitted by Griner Drilling Service, Inc. of Columbia to perform the inspection if Layne cannot begin work by next Monday.
"Since this is an emergency situation we can't afford to wait two months for the company to start work," Councilman James Thrifflay said just after the meeting.
Griner submitted a bid of $2,475 to do the work.
Both Griner and Layne based their bid on a two-day work period to complete the job.
In other business, the council agreed to delay a $33,468 payment to Southland Enterprises, Inc. of Gulfport for work repairing sewer lines and paying streets in the city until Joseph Gex, city attorney, determines if the payment is legal.

Gex said he would provide that opinion at the next council meeting, Dec. 8.
Councilman Gene Taylor questioned the payment at a recent meeting. He explained that the mayor authorized the work without accepting bids for the job and without receiving the council's approval.
Both of those criteria are required by law before any company can be hired by a public body, Taylor said.
Bennett said he has already received approval from the Mississippi State Audit Department to pay the bill.
He said Southland Enterprises submitted a bid at the beginning of last year when the city accepted bids for the entire year. He noted the council approved the bid at that time.

Also Tuesday, the council approved the $12,500 contract with James Chiniche, an engineer, the city has approved to supervise recreational improvements included in a 1981 Small Cities Project.
The contract represents 10 percent of the total estimated cost to resurface two tennis courts and an existing basketball court of Washington Street Park.
The council approved Chiniche beginning the project.
Also at the meeting, the council withheld a final $9,121 payment to Utilities Construction Co. until the council receives approval from the State Public Service Commission that work on the Julia Street gas line is satisfactory.
The next regular city council meeting is Dec. 8 at 7 p.m. in City Hall.

NORDA names new technical director

Dr. James Andrews of Pearl River, La., marine geologist and geophysicist, has been chosen technical director of the Naval Ocean Research and Development Activity at the National Space Technology Laboratories.
Andrews, a native of Minneapolis and a 1963 graduate of Amherst College, will replace Dr. Ralph Goodman, who had served as NORDA technical director since the activity was established in 1976.
Goodman recently assumed the post of director of the Supreme Allied Commander Atlantic Anti-Submarine Warfare Research Centre at La Spezia, Italy.
Until his selection as NORDA's new technical director was revealed by NORDA Commanding Officer Capt. G. T. Phelps, Dr. Andrews had been serving as the director of NORDA's Ocean Sciences and Technology Laboratory. He was named to that position in February of this year.
Andrews earned his PhD in oceanography at the Institute of Marine Sciences of the University of Miami in 1967 and since then has worked and published in the field of marine geology and geophysics.
He has served as an assistant

DR. JAMES ANDREWS

associate professor and professor of oceanography at the University of Hawaii at Manoa and as chairman of the Department of Oceanography there. He served twice as chief scientist for the Deep Sea Drilling Project.
He was elected a fellow of the Geological Society of America in 1972. He has also served on the Governor's Committee on Hawaii and the Sea—the first state sponsored counterpart to the Stratton Report.
In 1976, Andrews was awarded the Humboldt Prize (U.S. Senior Scientist Award) by the government of the Federal Republic of Germany. This prize was in recognition of outstanding scientific achievement at the international level.
Just prior to his arrival at NORDA, he was involved in research in the application of military sonar systems to long range side scan mapping, the deep ocean environment and its influence on sediment and manganese nodule deposits; evaluation of the deep ocean environment as a site for large chert rock detector (DUMAND); and development of submarine drainage patterns around the Hawaiian Islands. Andrews' research interests are in the influence of man's activities on the ocean and their potential as pathways for waste disposal.

This work was supported by the Office of Naval Research, the National Science Foundation, the State of Hawaii, NOAA and United States Industry.
Dr. Andrews and his wife, Nona, live in the Magnolia Forest subdivision in Pearl River, La.
NORDA is responsible for carrying out a broadly based research, development, testing and evaluation program in ocean science and technology, with emphasis on understanding ocean processes through measurement and analysis, and the effects of this ocean environment on Navy systems and operations.
The major thrusts of NORDA's research and development efforts are in acoustic bottom interaction, fine and mesoscale oceanography, ocean technology, remote sensing oceanography and environmental and acoustic modeling.

AIRMAN JACOBS
Airman 1st Class Thomas J. Jacobs, whose wife Anita is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Copeland of Pass Christian, has completed Air Force basic training at Lackland Air Force Base, Tex.
"During the six weeks at Lackland, the airman studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special training in human relations," an Air Force spokesman says.
"In addition, airmen who complete basic training earn credits toward an associate degree in applied science through the Community College of the Air Force," the spokesman adds.
The airman will now begin on-the-job training in music at Keesler Air Force Base in Biloxi.
He is a 1979 graduate of William Carey College in Hattiesburg.

EXCELLENT WATCHDOG—The Bay-Waveland Humane Society is offering this two-year-old mixed breed, but predominantly Doberman, female named Annie, free to a good home with a fenced yard. A humane society spokesman reports Annie is an excellent watchdog and is very gentle with children. She also does well with the group and will pay one-half the going fee. Annie is wormed and has received all necessary vaccinations. For more information telephone 487-4475. (BSEH)

Chamber urging support of compulsory education

The Hancock County Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors recently voted to urge chambers of commerce across the state to support compulsory education.
"Each year a bill is introduced into the Legislature, and each year it is killed," said Chamber President Dick Kosbab. "We want to change that verdict this year."
"The board has discovered that Mississippi is the only state in the Union that does not require compulsory attendance in school and we're asking every chamber in the state to contact state senators and representatives, voicing support of this vital issue," he continued.

According to Kosbab, the chamber checked with various sources to find that Mississippi has the highest dropout rate of any southern state—59 dropouts per 100 graduating high school seniors; and dropouts during the 1979-80 Mississippi public school session totaled almost 15,000 students.

Youth court statistics for 1980 reveal that although almost all offenders are under 16, nearly one-third are not in school. In addition, 16 percent of those offenders perform below their expected grade level.
"The average cost of retaining one child for one year in a state institution is $15,148," Kosbab explained. "We believe in the state of Mississippi and we love it. Our purpose is to promote our state and county, and we feel the place to begin is with the youth of our area," he concluded.

Some facts that will curl your hair.
If you've been thinking about giving yourself a home perm, there's something you should know. The reason permers curl your hair is because they literally rearrange the molecules within the hair shaft permanently. Whether you end up with soft waves or frizz depends on how, and how much those molecules are rearranged. At our salon, our stylists are trained in the chemistry of permanent waving. They don't take it lightly. Before each perm, you can ask them to analyze your hair to be sure it can take the chemical change and come through it beautifully. So if you want the curl and easy care of a perm, come to our salon.

CHECKING FOR FINGER PRINTS—Investigator Alvin Ladner of the Hancock County Sheriff's Department Friday morning dusts for fingerprints on a vehicle in which a teenage girl was reportedly raped earlier that day near Ansley Road. (Staff photo by Ellis Cuevas).

Rape

of ammunition when he was arrested Friday night.

The apparent rape occurred sometime between midnight and 4 a.m. Friday, Ladner reported.

The investigator said, "The suspect was given a ride by the couple to a location west of Waveland on US-90 where the subject allegedly pulled a gun and placed it to the head of the boy and placed a knife to the throat of the girl. The suspect then allegedly forced the couple to drive along Ansley Road where he ordered them turn on to an isolated grass covered road and stop."

"The suspect apparently ordered the boy to get out of the car, tied his hands and feet behind his back, and repeatedly raped the girl," Ladner stated.

"The young couple were then allegedly robbed of about $12 in cash. The two report that the suspect untied the boy and forced him to drive toward Waveland. He made them stop on the Lower Bay Road, ordered them to stay in the car and fled on foot," Ladner reported.

The girl was taken to Hancock General Hospital where she was treated and released, Ladner reported. The investigator said the boy was not injured.

Also participating in a continuing investigation are Sheriff Ronald A. Peterson, Hancock Investigator Delbert Seay, Waveland Investigator Robert (Poochy) Tartavouille, and Sandra Henley, Deputies Dennis Tartavouille, Cuevas, Strong and other Waveland and Bay St. Louis Police Department personnel.

Bennett said he approved to the Owen and White Plan.

"The regional plan was a farce," Bennett said, and noted the plan alone cost taxpayers more than $2 million.

Bennett also feels implementing the Owen and White plan will save the taxpayers an additional $20 million.

The Owen and White plan estimates construction of a tri-county plan to cost $6,704,000 according to the CH2MHILL

Owen and White estimates the cost of implementing their plan for the ad hoc committee to be $7,619,000, which is $9,185,000 less than construction proposed by the tri-county plan.

Cuevas auxiliary officers elected

The first meeting of the Cuevas Volunteer Women's Auxiliary was conducted recently and officers elected include Jo Ann Bowie, president; Merle Hammock, vice president; Bernice Schmidt, treasurer; and Rosie Arceneaux, secretary.

Other positions established at the meeting include Bowie as firefighter, errand runner, Hammock as fundraisers, and children's officers, Schmidt as fundraiser and dispatcher, and Arceneaux as firefighter, fundraiser, and dispatcher.

Regular meetings were scheduled for the second Thursday of each month from 7:30 p.m. until 9 p.m.

"Any woman can become a member of the auxiliary by simply attending the meetings and paying the dues, which are $12 per year," Arceneaux explains.

Bowie's duties include presiding at all meetings of the auxiliary.

Hammock's responsibilities as vice president of the auxiliary include conducting meetings and assuming duties of the president in her absence.

Schmidt, as treasurer will collect dues and receive all money received by the auxiliary in addition to paying bills and maintaining an accurate account of all transactions.

Arceneaux's duties include recording the minutes of all auxiliary meetings.

Newell, McSweeney wed at American Legion

Mary M. McSweeney of Bay St. Louis and R. James Newell of Piquette were united in marriage November 15 in a 3 p.m. ceremony at the American Legion home in Bay St. Louis.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Latour of Bay St. Louis. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. R. James Newell Sr. of Piquette. Rev. Charles Clark officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of antique white tulle with a fitted bodice and Victorian neckline adorned with Alencon lace and seed pearls. The long tapered sleeves were accented with Alencon lace cuffs and matching lace trimmed the caplet which held a two tiered veil of tulle.

She carried a colonial style bouquet of all roses in shades of peach, rust and beige interspersed with forget-me-nots and lace and ribbon streamers.

Patricia Ann Faciane of Pearlinton, daughter of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a street length beige dress featuring wrap styling and long sleeves. She carried an arm bouquet of peach and rust silk roses, forget-me-nots, and pussy willow with satin streamers. Terry Doyle of Pearlinton was best man.

A reception followed at the American Legion Home.

Out-of-town guests included Nannette Faciane and son Jason of Denham Springs, La. and Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Faciane of Sildell, children of the bride; Jimmy Newell and Shells Newell of Piquette, children of the groom; and Mrs. R. James Newell Sr. of Piquette.

On return from a wedding trip to Memphis, Tenn. the couple will reside in Pearlinton. The bride is employed with Delchamps in Waveland, and the groom with Gonzales Construction at Port Blenville.

Massachusetts vows unite Watts, Ciaffoni

Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Ciaffoni of Canonsburg, Pa. announce the marriage of their daughter, Bonnie Lee, to Richard Henry Watts, son of James William Watts Jr. of Bay St. Louis and the late Virginia Chapman Watts.

Vows were solemnized October 3 1981 at St. Paul's Episcopal Church in Nantucket, Mass.

Father James Allen officiated at the 4 p.m. ceremony. A dinner reception followed at the Jared-Coffin House. Harpist Sandra Bitterman coordinated the music.

Attending the bride was her sister, Melody Ciaffoni Skall, of South Natick, Mass. The best man was James William Watts III, brother of the groom, of Houston, Texas.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a full length gown of ivory crepe with an English lace bodice and featuring a Queen Anne neckline. Her cathedral length veil fell from a crown of fresh white flowers. She carried a bouquet of blue iris, stephanotis and baby's breath.

The bride's attendant wore a full length gown of garnet crepe with a lace bodice and cuffs.

A graduate of Washington and Jefferson College and Duquesne University, the bride is a reading specialist at the Belair School in Mandeville, Jamaica.

The groom, a graduate of Tulane University, is a chemical engineer with Kaiser Aluminum, Corp. of Mandeville, Jamaica.

Guests at the wedding included James Skall of South Natick, Mass.; Mrs. James McCune of Washington, Pa.; the bride's two grandmothers, Mrs. Ann Brennan of Springdale, Pa., and Mrs. Conchita Ciaffoni of Tucson, Ariz.; Mrs. James William Watts III, of Houston, Texas; and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Chapman Watts, brother and sister-in-law of the groom, of Albuquerque, New Mexico. Also James William Watts Jr., father of the groom; Mrs. Walter Dupiquier and Mrs. Norvin Penrose, aunts of the groom; Mr. and Mrs. J.P. Campretta; and Miss Valda Pittcain and Anthony Lofano, all of Bay St. Louis.

Hospital Auxiliary reinstates officers for 1981-82

By JOE FILET

Installation services were waived on Thursday for presiding officers of the Hancock General Hospital Auxiliary because those who served during the previous term are reinstated.

Officers are: Mrs. Agnes Chevils Miller, president; Mrs. Selma George, first vice-president; Mrs. Odette Puchot, second vice-president; Mrs. Lanie Peltz, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Shirley Cox, recording secretary.

The auxiliary was organized in 1957 when Hancock County was served by the Old King's Daughters and Sons Hospital, of which Tom Logue was administrator.

Logue felt the need of volunteers to assist outlying services to be performed and called together a quorum. Mrs. Wil. Argus was elected as the charter member president, and Mrs. Agnes Chevils served as the first vice-president.

Plans were being formulated for the new hospital, built in 1980, through assistance from the King's Daughters and Sons, Hancock County, federal and state government agencies.

The Ladies Hospital Auxiliary meets monthly and provides many helpful day by day volunteer services including the rental of TV equipment, and a "pink lady" hospitality service for patients.

Currently, Phillip Longston serves as administrator of the facility and leads the volunteer services provided by the group.
